Aleksandra Ilic

Currently studying a Bachelor of Laws/ Bachelor of Arts

Aleksandra Ilic believes her friends would describe her as 'passionate, driven and very self-motivated'.

She says she draws her inspiration from another strong woman, the artist Frida Kahlo. 'When Frida Kahlo paints; she embodies messages and ideas about women that you don't usually see,' Aleksandra says.

Aleksandra presents herself as a very strong, eloquent young woman who has already had some significant achievements.

While at Liverpool Girls High School she was the Form Prefect, was in a mock trial team that won the South West Region finals, and involved in peer mentoring. In year 10 she was her school's representative for the Quota International Student of the Year competition.

At UWS she is studying a Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of Arts, which she chose because she has always wanted to practise law. 'There's never been any question of that but I also wanted the Arts component because I'm very passionate about literature and philosophy.'

'The friendships I formed became very close very quickly, and it's really made the transition to university a lot easier.'

Aleksandra says she has benefited from the Aspire Leadership program during her time at UWS. 'I quickly realised what a great opportunity it would be to meet so many gifted and focused students, but it has turned out to be so much more. The friendships I formed became very close very quickly, and it's really made the transition to university a lot easier.'

Once she completes her studies the UWS Golden Key Society member wants to look into corporate and international law, as well as going for the Bar.

Why Study

Professor Steven Freeland

- » Successful career path: Established in 2001 the UWS School of Law has quickly grown in stature as an institution preparing world class legal professionals. Our Law programs have been designed in conjunction with the legal profession and are accredited for the purpose of admission to practice as a lawyer. The success of graduates such as Leonie Young and Kellie Stares has put our law programs firmly on the world stage.
- » Professionally Accredited Curriculum: Our Law programs have been designed in conjunction with the legal profession and are accredited for admission as a lawyer.

- » Learn from leaders in the field: Our connection with pre-eminent, respected professional networks will set you up for career success. Our lecturers will challenge, stretch and inspire you to forge an exceptional legal career. You will meet lecturers such as Professor Steven Freeland, who spends half the year teaching international law at UWS – and the other half involved in creating international legal precedent as a Visiting Professional at the International Criminal Court at The Hague.

- » Hone professional skills: The UWS Law Library houses the fourth largest e-law library in NSW, with over 50,000 titles and links to international resources. However, you need more than just books and precedents to become a top-flight legal professional. Developing professional skills through real-life practical experience during your degree will prepare you to step into any legal environment you choose.

- » Rich learning environments: Law programs are offered at the Campbelltown and Parramatta campuses. Both offer excellent facilities, including moot courts for practising advocacy skills, a comprehensive library and computer-based law research facilities. Each campus is directly linked to the community and reflects the cultural diversity, energy and growth of the region.
- » In May 2010 UWS opened the Parramatta Community Justice Clinic which provides UWS law students with an opportunity to learn in a clinical environment in which legal advice is provided to members of the community.

Law at UWS?

Oxford University

» Global aspirations: Get a taste of international legal systems as an exchange student, or follow in the footsteps of other UWS law graduates and complete postgraduate studies at Oxford, Cambridge or Harvard. Our internationalised curriculum will set you on the right path.

» Practising advocacy: Mooting is an important part of the UWS curriculum, providing the opportunity to develop skills in advocacy in a setting like a real court. UWS Law students have had the opportunity to practise their moots and receive feedback before Supreme Court judges and practising barristers. We have produced international champion mooters, with a team from UWS winning the Australian Law Students' Association Mooting Competition and going on to place third at the Commonwealth Moot Competition in 2009.

» Making a difference: Doing pro bono work is the best way to get real 'on-the-ground' legal experience, giving you the chance to learn what the law is all about, and to make a big difference – both to your clients and to your career, with rich personal rewards an added bonus. Initiatives such as the Pro Bono Students Australia program and the Parramatta Community Justice Clinic, give you the opportunity to gain real-world experience by assisting solicitors in legal drafting, court advocacy, client advising, oral communication, negotiation and mediation, as well as providing members of the community with vital access to justice. What's more, it fosters the ethos of public service, helping UWS turn out legal professionals who are not only the best in their field, but who also are mindful of their public service obligations.

» Dynamic research culture: UWS has a distinctive, high-impact research culture committed to enhancing our region's cultural, economic, environmental and educational development. Our reputation for research excellence has placed us in the Australian Research Council's (ARC) funding top 20, underlining our position among the best research universities in the country. Our research centres and programs make real differences to contemporary life, attracting international, national and local interest.

Bachelor of Laws (Combined Studies)

Tailor your studies to your goals by combining our accredited Bachelor of Laws degree with another degree.

When you graduate after five years, you have two degrees, and excellent practical legal skills relevant to professional employment. The structure allows concurrent study in the two degrees in the first three years, with the last two years dedicated to completing the Law component.

The Law component provides you with professional legal skills including the ability to analyse legal material, understand fundamental legal principles, understand the relationship between law and society, and gain general analytical skills for critical thinking and problem solving. Our extensive range of elective units allows you to further develop your skills in advocacy, mediation, legal drafting and legal research.

Practical Experience

Students often engage in work experience during their course, for example, working at the NSW Attorney General's in legal aid, working in cooperative Summer Research Programs with industry, and in the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) advisory support scheme. Students will also have the opportunity to participate in the Pro Bono Students Australia (PBSA) volunteering program.

Accreditation

Graduates from this program are eligible to apply to the Legal Profession Admission Board for admission as a legal practitioner in NSW after undertaking prescribed practical legal training.

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time. Note: Not all combined degrees are offered on both campuses. Law components are available at Campbelltown and Parramatta. For information on the second degree taken with Law, refer to the relevant Course Guide. When listing these as a preference, check locations carefully.

Your skills will be developed using our extensive law library and moot courts located on our Campbelltown and Parramatta campuses. The University of Western Sydney, in partnership with the National Pro Bono Resource Centre (NPBRC), offers an exciting volunteering program for law students.

You will have the opportunity, with supervision, to undertake projects for organisations that have limited resources.

For more information on the non-Law degrees, please refer to the relevant Course Guide or visit myfuture.uws.edu.au

Further Studies

Within the Bachelor of Laws (Combined Studies) there is an embedded Honours stream available to high-achieving students. Information about the embedded Honours option will be provided to you as you progress through your Bachelor degree.

Core Subjects and Electives

The core subjects (units) you may study in this degree include Introduction to Law, Criminal Law, Torts Law, Law Foundation, Contracts, Property Law, Constitutional Law, Professional Responsibility and Legal Ethics, Equity Trusts and Remedies, Commercial Law, Law of Associations, Revenue Law, Criminal Procedure and Evidence, Dispute Resolution and Civil Procedure and Administrative Law.

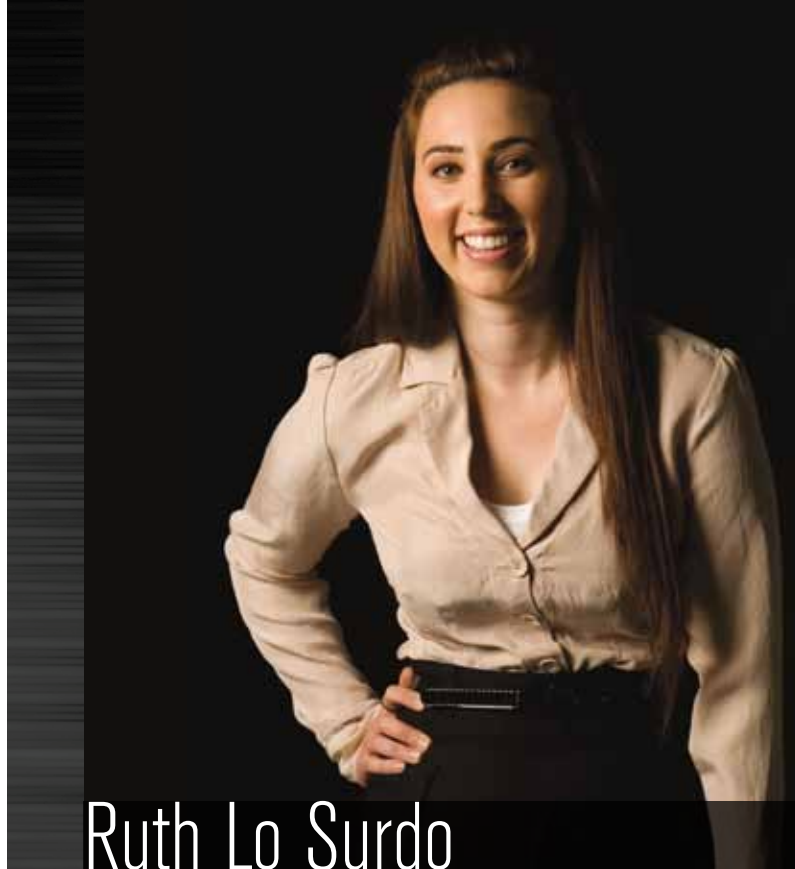

Within this degree, you may choose eight LLB (Bachelor of Laws) alternate units (see page 12). For example, you may enrol in the alternate subject Indigenous Australians and the Law.

For detailed information about the course structure and subjects, visit myfuture.uws.edu.au

Career Opportunities

- » lawyer in government service.

Ruth Lo Surdo

Currently studying a Bachelor of Business and Commerce/Bachelor of Law

A medical mission trip to Northern Thailand in 2007 had a profound effect on Ruth Lo Surdo. 'There I witnessed the absolutely terrible conditions that people were living in and saw how many had been completely deprived of any medical attention for years,' she says.

'I couldn't get out of my mind the undernourished children and the entire towns that didn't even have suitable drinking water. I chose to study Law so that I can eventually study human rights law and make a difference through working with international organisations in order to provide these people with higher standards of living.'

'When deciding what uni to attend I was told that UWS had a strong focus toward social justice. This was very important to me.'

This decision led Ruth to the University of Western Sydney and eventually to the Aspire Future Leaders program. 'When deciding what uni to attend I was told that UWS had a strong focus toward social justice. This was very important to me. As well as that the Law school had a good reputation. The Aspire program is my favourite thing about UWS and makes me feel as if the uni cares about its students and sees their potential, rather than just training them to send them off to the workforce.'

'I also love being challenged and pushing my own boundaries. My future goal is to work in an organisation like the UN where I could help and influence others about the need to help those less fortunate.'

Bachelor of Laws (Graduate Entry)

If you are a graduate and you are looking to move into a career in law, the Bachelor of Laws (Graduate Entry) will provide you with the knowledge and specialist legal skills to propel you into your legal career.

The degree gives you a strong background in fundamental legal principles as well as professional legal skills. This includes the ability to analyse legal material and understand fundamental legal principles, an understanding of the relationship between law and society, general analytical skills for analysing and solving non-legal problems, and specialised study into the Australian legal system. You will develop skills in advocacy, negotiation, legal drafting and legal research.

Courses	UAC Code	Location	Duration	ATAR

Leonie Young

Counsel-Assisting the Solicitor-General of Australia

Bachelor of Laws (Graduate entry)

Leonie's advice to budding law graduates is to 'work hard, talk to as many people in the profession as you can, and make the most of every single opportunity presented to you'.

During her time at UWS, Leonie found the practical features of both compulsory and elective subjects to be one of the best aspects of the Laws course. Advocacy and written exercises such as mooting and legal drafting provided her with excellent opportunities to translate legal knowledge into 'real life' situations, developing essential skills necessary for legal practice.

'Never dismiss opportunities because you think they are insignificant at the time – you never know where they may take you in the future.'

Leonie delivered on her own advice, completing her degree with first class honours and also receiving the University Medal in early 2007. She also spent a semester lecturing first and final year law students at Meiji University in Tokyo, Japan.

In 2008-2009 Leonie served as Associate to the Honourable Justice Michael Kirby AC CMG of the High Court of Australia. In late 2009 Leonie was awarded the Frank Knox Memorial Fellowship Scholarship which took her to Harvard University to complete her Master of Laws. She graduated from Harvard in May 2010.

Upon her return to Australia, Leonie has practised as a solicitor in commercial litigation with a mid-tier firm in Sydney. She has recently been appointed to the position of Counsel-Assisting the Solicitor-General of Australia.

Bachelor of Laws (Non-Graduate Entry)

If you are not a university graduate but you have some tertiary study behind you, the Bachelor of Laws (Non-Graduate Entry) is the opportunity you have been waiting for to discover a career in law.

Courses	UAC Code	Location	Duration	ATAR
Bachelor of Laws (Non-Graduate Entry)	725005	Campbelltown	4F/8P	N/A
Advanced Standing – Recognition of Prior Learning
If students have successfully completed one full-time year of study at a recognised university, or completed a diploma, they may be granted advanced standing for the eight non-Law electives – reducing the program to three years full-time or six years part-time.
Practical Experience
Students often engage in work experience during their course, for example, working at the NSW Attorney General's in legal aid, working under the Summer Clerkship Program with industry, and in the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) advisory support scheme. Students will also have the opportunity to participate in the Parramatta Community Justice Clinic (PCJC) and in the Pro Bono Students Australia (PBSA) volunteering program.
Entry Requirements
This course is not available to current HSC school leavers. Applications will be considered from those having successfully completed one year of full time study at a recognised university, or completion of a diploma or advanced diploma at TAFE.
Accreditation
Graduates from this degree are eligible to apply to the Legal Profession Admission Board for admission as a legal practitioner in NSW after undertaking prescribed professional legal training (PLT). The School of Law offers a Graduate Diploma in Legal Practice, which provides the PLT qualification for admission. A feature of the UWS law degree is that students can simultaneously complete some of the PLT units required for admission as a legal practitioner.

Key: B = Bachelor of; F = Full-time; P = Part-time; N/A = Additional selection criteria apply. Note: part-time refers to study load not to timetabling of evening classes.

This degree gives you a broad liberal legal education with a strong practical orientation. It is designed to equip you with the required knowledge and skills for legal practice. Even if you're not seeking to practise as a lawyer, your learning will be enriched by exposure to the ethos and practice of law.

The course provides you with professional legal skills, including the ability to analyse legal material and understand fundamental legal principles, an understanding of the relationship between law and society, general analytical skills for analysing and solving non-legal problems, and specialised study into the Australian legal system. During the course you will develop skills in advocacy, negotiation, legal drafting and legal research.

Further Studies

The Bachelor of Laws (Non-Graduate Entry) has an embedded Honours stream available to high-achieving students. Information about the embedded Honours option will be provided to you as you progress through your Bachelor degree.

Core Subjects and Electives

To graduate with a Bachelor of Laws (Non-Graduate Entry), you will be required to complete 32 subjects (units).

The core subjects you may study in this degree include Introduction to Law, Law Foundation, Torts Law, Criminal Law, Contracts, Property Law, Constitutional Law, Professional Responsibility and Legal Ethics, Equity Trusts and Remedies, Commercial Law, Law of Associations, Dispute Resolution and Civil Procedure, Criminal Procedure and Evidence, Revenue Law and Administrative Law.

Within this degree, you may choose eight LLB (Bachelor of Law) alternate units (see page 12) or additional electives, which may include eight non-Law subjects from most UWS courses.

Jared Bennett

Currently studying a Bachelor of Business and Commerce (Accounting)/Bachelor of Law

Jared Bennett's advice to students wishing to pursue Law studies at UWS is simple yet profound – get involved.

'UWS prides itself on its mooting culture which, along with the support from the School of Law, provides students with unique opportunities to improve their advocacy skills and their practical legal skills generally,' he says. 'The legal profession is a close community profession and extracurricular participation is also a good means of getting to know the academic staff at UWS.'

Jared chose to study at UWS because of the experienced academic staff. He also liked the close proximity of the campus to his home and the practical focus of the degree.

Since coming to UWS, Jared certainly has become involved. He is the President of the UWS Law Students Association, has been a participant in the LexisNexis Constitutional Law Mooting Competition and Law Week Exhibition Moot and Student Editor for the University of Western Sydney Law Review.

'The community feel in Law at the Campbelltown campus is noticeably strong and after one semester there you are guaranteed to have a network of friends – everyone knows everyone.'

'The campus is serene and the teachers and facilities provide both the academic material and the practical experience to prepare students for life in the profession.'

UWS Mooters Win National and International Honours

UWS law students have an outstanding record of wins in international and national mooting competitions.

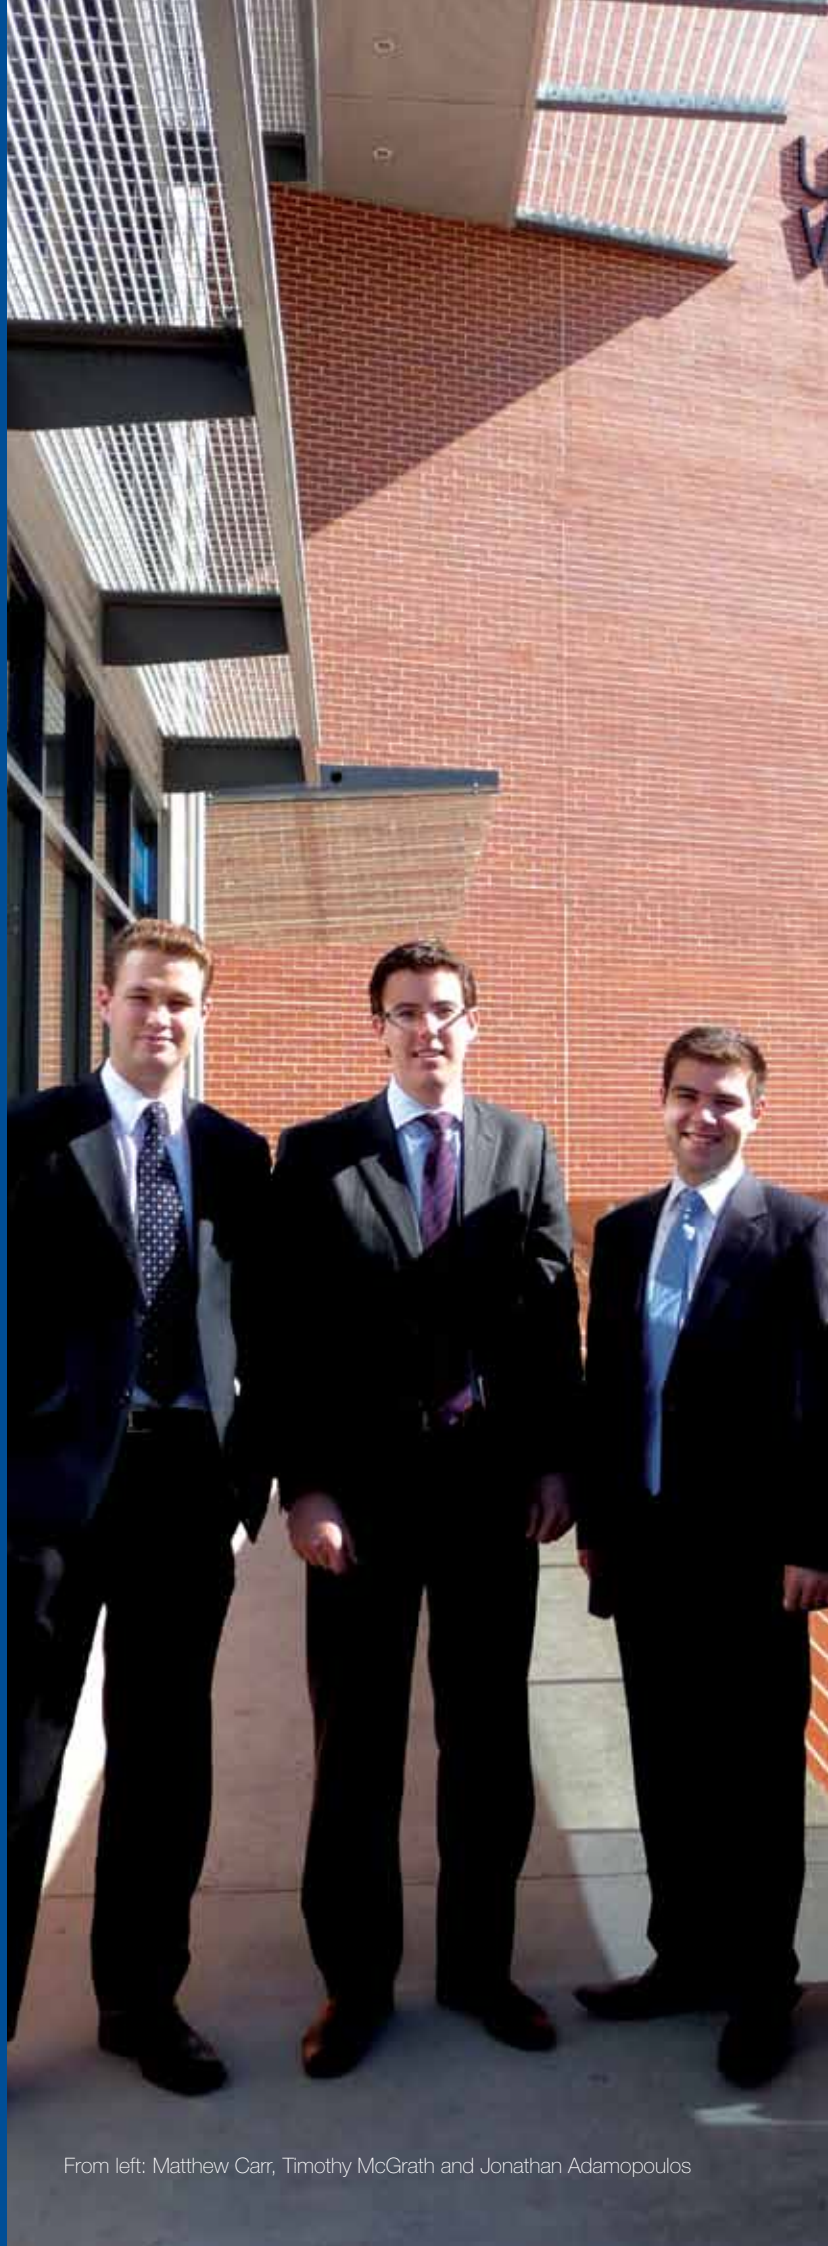

In 2008, a team of three UWS law students – Jonathan Adamopoulos, Timothy McGrath and Matthew Carr – beat teams from across New Zealand, Australia and Singapore to win the prestigious Australian Law Students' Association Mooting Competition.

In the same competition, Jonathan, now a solicitor at top-tier law firm Allens Arthur Robinson, was named Best Oralist for the second year running.

This team of students then went on to brilliantly represent Australia and the University of Western Sydney at the 16th Commonwealth Law Conferences' 2009 Commonwealth Law Moot Competition, held in Hong Kong. The team from UWS finished third after the narrowest of semi-final losses to the University of Hong Kong.

Following on from this success, Timothy McGrath, Andrew Deards and Osman Basiacik represented UWS in 2009 at the Sir Harry Gibbs Constitutional Law Moot, the premier national Constitutional Law Moot in Australia.

The UWS representatives defeated teams from the University of Melbourne, the University of Sydney, Flinders University and Queensland University of Technology, finishing third overall. Timothy McGrath was named Best Oralist in both the preliminary and final rounds of the competition.

Providing Support Through Scholarships

The University of Western Sydney is not only about obtaining an education. We challenge ourselves to engage students who will get involved and make a difference to the University and wider communities.

UWS has a unique set of scholarships on offer with many differing criteria. They reflect our strong commitment to academic excellence and opportunity for Greater Western Sydney students. Our scholarships support students who have diverse interests and skills, and who can and do make an active contribution.

UWS works closely with business, industry, and the community to ensure we offer scholarships that meet the needs of our students. Our scholarships provide our students with support and give them the opportunity to establish professional relationships while they study.

Take the time to examine our scholarships and make the most of your opportunities for success. For details on UWS Scholarships, including the eligibility requirements and how to apply, refer to www.uws.edu.au/scholarships or call 1300 897 669.

Dean Astley

Bachelor of Laws/Bachelor of Arts
– majoring in Chinese language

Aspire Future Leader

He says that the decision to do this degree was actually a bit last minute, 'I ended up getting a much higher UAI than I had expected – I was going to do teaching, but that day I came home and changed my preferences so I could do Law.'

Dean says his involvement with the Aspire Future Leaders program at UWS has so far been rewarding. He says that meeting likeminded people in other areas of study and developing 'interdisciplinary camaraderie' is adding to his university experience, while what he's learning is just as valuable.

'You can study law and learn all the things you're meant to know, but what I'm learning through the Aspire seminars are things like oratory skills, dealing with pressure and presentation skills. It's turning me into the whole package.'

Aspiring Leaders

Aspire Future Leaders at the University of Western Sydney™ is a unique professional development and personal enrichment program that has been specifically designed to cultivate and enhance the leadership qualities of students.

By being a part of Aspire, you will have the opportunity to be involved in:

- » the annual three-day Aspire Welcome Retreat
- » professional and personal development workshops
- » valuable networking opportunities with the professional community

- » VIP Invitations to UWS Open Days and other annual events
- » volunteering opportunities through community engagement
- » internships and work experience opportunities.

Aspire is an opportunity for young, talented people with leadership abilities and ambitions, to become part of an elite group of high-achieving undergraduate students. For details on the Aspire program and eligibility requirements, please refer to serious.uws.edu.au or call 1300 897 669.
